Xerox Versalink C405: Big business in a small machine

Tricked out with all the standard features

You can configure your C405/DN from a 5-inch tablet with touchscreen, that has the entire control panel. Perform tasks such as making copies, printing from the cloud, or printing from a USB thumb drive, from the panel. The C405/DN has a 700-sheet input capacity, which are split between a 550-sheet drawer and a 150-sheet drawer.

You can add another tray for 550 sheets, bringing the total up to 1250 sheets. It has a maximum duty cycle of 80000 pages. Although this is an extensive capacity, you are recommended to keep the monthly print volumes between 2000-6000 pages per month.

Take advantage of brilliant connectivity and security

One of the most significant features of the C405/DN is its connectivity. To start with, it supports Ethernet and USB 3.0 connectivity. Its other mobile connectivity features include:

- Apple AirPrint
- Google Cloud Print
- Mopria
- Xerox Print Service Plug-In for Android
- Xerox Mobile Cloud Print
- PrintBy Xerox

Another important quality is the machine's security, which is extensive. They include access control, 256-bit encryption, an audit log, user authentication, domain filtering, IP address filtering, and certificate path validation. You can restrict printing access by user or department by trying out the Secure Print feature. Thanks to this security, each user of the machine can sign in to his or her individually configured control panel, and you can restrict access accordingly.

Buy this printer for the highest of quality

The other most striking thing about the C405/DN is its clean quality of print. All text comes out well-shaped and easy to read in all the sizes. The legibility of text is valid even with tiny sizes such as 4 point-font. The C405/DN's quality is excellent for any business applications, contracts, or proposals, all of which have plenty of fine print, and should impress any prospective client easily.

The graphics quality and fills come out uniformly, and gradients flow between colours effortlessly without any blurring or sharpness. If you want to print photographs, this machine produces excellent photos with bright colours and accurate detail.
